Yule 2009

Yule marks the turn of the cycle of the year to the time when the sunlight increases. When the days reach their darkest, we know that they will begin to get brighter. This season has been marked for millennia with celebrations that include elements of warmth and life—fires and candles, evergreen fir and holly boughs. We gather with our family and friends, decorate the tree and string the lights, celebrating our lives together and the cycle of renewal of the year.

At GaelSong, we hope to help you celebrate the seasons and the connections and cycles the Celts saw in all nature. We present beautiful gifts in the Celtic style, made the world over. Many items we offer are hand-crafted by artisans devoted to keeping traditional Celtic handiwork and design alive. Whether you seek wisdom by reflecting on the past or seek beauty and inspiration in the present, we hope our products will bring you joy and delight.

NEW! CELTIC CHRISTMAS CANDLES

Candles are a beloved part of Christmas festivities, even—or especially—in the age of electric lights. The soft glow of candlelight invites family and friends to gather closer, into the welcoming circle of brightness and warmth in the winter night. Pillar candles with illuminated calligraphy in the classic style bring you this timeless ambiance. Candle is 7 1/2" tall; unscented. Make it last forever by placing a tea-light inside the pillar after it has burned down part way. Made in USA. Choose from "Joy to the World," "Merry Christmas," and "Peace on Earth."

EXCLUSIVE! ORGANIC BLACK SHEEP SWEATER

In western Ireland, sheep still graze the countryside, herded home by keeper and collies. The undyed naturally brown wool of these sweaters is knitted in a mill beside the River Gweestin, where woolens have been made since the 17th century. With the traditional pattern of the Aran Islands, this sweater has substantial weight without being bulky. Also available in Oatmeal and Natural Cream. Made in County Kerry, Ireland. Men's sizes; women order one size smaller than usual. XS-XXL.
